

Report on one-day seminar From App to Court: A Seminar on Enhancing Legal Awareness through AIR, Constitution, and Judicial Structure
(16th October 2025)

Introduction:

In today's fast-paced digital world, legal literacy and easy access to judicial information are essential not only for law students but for every citizen. Understanding the Indian Constitution, the structure of the judiciary, and the ability to retrieve authentic legal information through digital tools such as the All India Reporter (AIR) and legal mobile applications has become increasingly important. In this context, Gandhinagar Institute of Law, in collaboration with Gandhinagar Institute of Liberal Studies and the Resource Centre of Gandhinagar University, organized a one-day seminar to promote digital legal awareness and enhance constitutional understanding.

Detailed Report:

The one-day seminar titled "From App to Court: Enhancing Legal Awareness through AIR, Constitution and Judicial Structure" was held on 16th October 2024 at A-103 Seminar Hall, Gandhinagar Institute of Law. The event was organized with the objective of promoting awareness about the Indian Constitution, the judicial framework, and the role of digital tools in accessing legal information. The initiative was a collaborative effort by the Gandhinagar Institute of Law and Gandhinagar Institute of Liberal Studies in association with the Resource Centre of Gandhinagar University.

The seminar commenced with a brief inaugural session, followed by the introduction of the esteemed guest speaker, Mr. Ronak Panchal, who served as the Resource Person. Mr. Panchal delivered a highly engaging and insightful presentation that focused on the importance of constitutional knowledge and the role of technology in legal empowerment. He emphasized how the All India Reporter (AIR) and other digital legal resources help law students, advocates, and citizens access landmark judgments, statutes, and case laws conveniently. He also demonstrated the use of mobile apps and online platforms to research legal material and stay updated with recent legal developments.

Mr. Panchal further highlighted the structure of the Indian judiciary and its relevance in ensuring justice and upholding democratic values. His talk drew attention to the value of credible legal information and how digital accessibility contributes to transparency, accountability, and informed citizen participation in a constitutional democracy.

The session was interactive and witnessed enthusiastic participation from students and faculty alike. Attendees raised thoughtful questions about judicial procedures, database access, and digital legal research, to which the speaker responded in detail. The seminar not only enhanced the understanding of the judicial structure but also encouraged students to explore legal resources beyond textbooks, fostering independent learning and digital competency.

In conclusion, the seminar proved to be a highly informative and successful academic initiative. It effectively raised legal awareness among the participants and underlined the necessity of integrating technology into legal education. The event reinforced Gandhinagar University's commitment to nurturing well-informed, digitally capable, and socially responsible legal professionals.
